NAME FIVE TO PAY BASEBALL DEBTS

Court Hands Down Decision in Case Against Blue Ridge
Directors.

AN IMMEDIATE PROTEST

Counsel For Messrs. Plank, Hartman, Funkhouser, McDannell And Dougherty Filed Objection to Decision.

The long drawn out baseball case which had been off stage for many months came into the line light again during the Thursday session of court when President Judge Donald P. McPherson handed down his opinion. Last May the case was submitted to the court without arguments, counsels for both sides agreeing to follow that procedure.

This baseball case grew out of debts incurred by the directors of the Gettysburg Blue Ridge League Club in 1916 when this town was represented in the class D organization now composed of Hanover, Martinsburg, Chambersburg, Frederick, Hagerstown and Waynesboro, the latter team replacing Gettysburg. For five years C. M. Wolf and the other creditors have tried in vain to collect money for bills incurred by the club before its demise.

On Thursday the court decreed that A. B. Plank and Howard J. Hartman be liable for $182.32 apiece and C. B. Dougherty, Roy P. Funkhouser and John McDannell for $132.32 apiece.

Upon learning the opinion of the court the counsel for the defense immediately filed exceptions, so it appears certain that the controversy will not be settled for a few more years. A day will be set for a hearing and if the court refuses to uphold the objection the case likely will go before the Superior Court.

Lengthy Opinion
In a lengthy opinion the court says in part: "In the spring of 1917 the Gettysburg Baseball Club was formed and there were elected as directors P. W. Stallsmith, R. C. Miller, David J. Forney, H. M. Hartman, John W. Brehm, A. B. Plank, C. B. Dougherty, R. P. Funkhouser, H. J. Hartman, Charles Kimple, John McDannell, J. Harry Holtzworth Rufus H. Bushman and Howard Shaeffer.

"That the above named persons accepted the position of directors, attended the meetings thereof and retained their association more or less actively as such directors during the baseball season of the year.

"That during the season there were incurred the following obligations which at the end of the season remained unpaid: C. M. Wolf $155.05 for lumber; F. E. Cremer $25 for carnations; E. F. Strausbaugh $48.01" and numerous other debts.

Financial Difficulties
In the next paragraphs the court outlined the financial difficulties of the club and the payments of some of the directors to meet the debts. "The defendants in this action never resigned nor severed their connection with the club but continued as

THURSDAY BUSY COURT SESSION

Normal in Quarter Sessions But Unusual Amount in Common Pleas.

Although the Court of Common Pleas had more important business transacted there on Thursday than any day since Prothonotary G. Harry Roth went into office, except during a regular term session, nothing unusual occurred in the Court of Quarter Sessions and Orphans Court.

The docket of J. R. Hartman shows that the following proceedings were among those transacted in this court on Thursday.

R. E. Wible, S. Miley Miller and H. W. Lightner were appointed viewers to determine the advisability of erecting a bridge over a branch of the Conewago creek in Menallen township on what is known as the "Potato Road." Oscar A. Zeigler was appointed constable of New Oxford to succeed Curtis E. Chronister who has moved from that borough.

August 8 was fixed as the day for hearing an application for the discharge from jail of John Fletcher, colored resident of Gettysburg.

The Citizens Trust Company was discharged as guardian of Edith I. Sheely, daughter of the late W. C. Sheely, Gettysburg. The inventories and appraisements of Laura Rebert, widow of Samuel H. Rebert, Littlestown; Emma Mehling, widow of S. D. Mehling, Littlestown; Rebecca Rahn, widow of Howard M. Rahn, Union township; Ella L. Kohler, widow of William Kohler, New Oxford; Alice E. Currens, widow of John T. Currens, Franklin township; and Mary Sager, widow of S. L. Sager, Mount Pleasant township, were confirmed absolute excepting the last which was confirmed nisi.

In the Court of Common Pleas the petition of Samuel H. Witter for monthly allowance for care of Harper Henry Witter was granted. In the case of Adam H. Leeder, foreman of the George Merdinger construction firm, versus the E. P. Wilbur Trust Company a rule was granted on Mr. Leeder to show cause why the summons should not be set aside.

Robert W. Durhoraw was appointed judge of elections in Cumberland township and Harvey L. Sterner to a similar position in Tyrone district number two. G. R. Deardorff was appointed school director in Conewago independent district to fill the unexpired term of William D. Chronister who has moved from there.

The divorce case of Serna R. Stuller versus William Stuller was ordered back to the master, George Walter, Esq., for further hearing. In the case of Walter D. Hines, director general of railroads, versus George W. Lynch, a motion to strike off the record the plaintiff's statement was filed. In the case of G. M. Krug versus James Murren a petition of the defendant for a rule to show cause why judgment should not be opened and he be allowed to enter a defense was filed.

MAKE FINAL PAYMENT

School Board Gives $1160 For Local Playground.

As the result of action taken at their Thursday night meeting the School Board today made payment of $1160 to William B. Kurtz for the town Playground, bringing to a close all negotiations between the Board and the man who donated the grounds to Gettysburg.

Tonight the School Board will meet to audit the school account of last year.

The Kurtz Playground Association is now paying all debts incurred during last year when they had control of the grounds.

Devil Dogs on Russian Island Would

Girls. Seldom See a Paper.

"We have not received a newspaper in three months". This is not the statement of irate subscriber whom the paper boy has overlooked on his route but is contained in a letter received recently from Sergeant Jack Walters of the United States Marine guard at the United States Radio Station Vladivostock, Siberia.

His letter is dated "Russian Islands, July 10, 1921" and in part reads as follows:

"Having by chance received a copy of The Times and noticed in it a statement that you would be glad to print any signed news item, I am writing you to explain who we are and how you can help us."

"We are part of the Marine Guard at the U. S. Naval Radio Station on Russian Island, Vladivostock, Siberia. As you know, this country has been torn up by the late war and is being laid waste still more by the fighting now going on from time to time. The result has been to make this unhappy land the eyesore of the world."

"Now what I would like you to do, is to announce that five lonely and homesick marines would like to correspond with any young ladies who will be kind enough to write to them. Any such letters we shall be glad to answer, giving them any information that they ask about the condition of things here and describing the many interesting things that we have seen in China, Russia, Philippines and Japan, for most of us have seen service in all of these countries."

"Here in Siberia the days are short and the nights long. The effect of the war has been to stop all travel so that we are restricted to the vicinity of Vladivostock, and, as you may learn from anyone who has been here since the war, there are no amusements of any kind nor any ways of passing away the time that hangs heavy on the hands of this party of

LATEST THING IN AUTOS

(By Associated Press)

Dayton, Ohio, Aug. 5.—Dayton's traffic policemen rubbed their eyes today when a miniature automobile sailed passed all semaphores. There wasn't a soul in it.

It was a driverless radio automobile from McCook Field controlled by a radio in a car one hundred feet behind it.

The automobile itself contained no wireless and is said to be the first of its kind publicly exhibited by the radio air service.

MINISTER'S WIFE WOMAN'S SUBJECT

Mrs. Cronk Gives Interesting
Talk. Missionary to Africa
Lectures.

One of the outstanding features of the Thursday sessions of the Lutheran Summer Assembly, being held at the Lutheran Seminary, was the talk delivered by Mrs. E. C. Cronk, of Richmond, Virginia, on the subject "The Pastor's Wife." It was the first time the situation, in which the minister's wife is placed in the home and in the congregation, has been discussed. Mrs. Cronk handled the subject in a most interesting fashion, characterizing the pastor's wife as "the best loved and the most criticised woman in the church."

Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars, during the story telling period, read one of her stories entitled "Memie."

Rev. G. C. Leonard, missionary to Africa, delivered a highly interesting lecture on work in the interior of Africa. Rev. Mr. Leonard was the first white man to reduce to writing the language of the Kapellas, a large tribe in the Republic of Liberia. He spoke in an inspiring way of the native's conception of the coming of the white man's God to Africa.

Last summer the Assembly obligated itself to the extent of $5000 to establish a new mission station in Liberia, Africa, to be known as the Lutheran Summer Assembly Mission.

This morning Dr. E. P. Wiles had as the subject matter of his talk on Bible study, the various kinds of prose and poetry used in the Bible to accomplish the divine purpose of religious instruction.

Miss Brenda Mehhouse, of Philadelphia, outlined mission study books and displayed posters to be used in congregations as mission study propaganda. Other speakers this morning were Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Cronk, Mrs. C. P. Wiles, and Dr. A. R. Wentz, of the Seminary faculty.

The speakers of the evening sessions, beginning at 6:30 o'clock, will be Rev. J. M. Corbe, in an illustrated lecture on missions in the Virgin Islands, and Dr. C. L. Fry on South American missions.

On Sunday morning the services at the College Lutheran Church will be in charge of Rev. G. N. Lauffer, of Altoona, and J. H. Meyer, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Mohling and Mrs. E. J. Decevee. Special music by the quartet has been announced.

YORK MAY STAGE HISTORICAL EVENT

Mayor Plans Sesqui-Centennial of Continental Congress
In York.

TO TAKE PLACE IN 1927

Special Session of The United States Congress in York to be Feature of Elaborate Program.

There will be a special session of the United States congress in York during the year 1927, provided plans which Mayor S. Hugentugler, of that city, has in mind can be successfully carried out. The proposed session would come as the crowning point of a celebration by this municipality of the sesquicentennial of the sitting of the Continental body in York in 1777, when as a result of British successes, Philadelphia became an unsafe place for its deliberations.

Mayor Hugentugler has been working for some time on plans which he was about to propose for the observance of this event, and arrived at the conclusion that the events which brought congress here in the dark days of the Revolution were so important that York's celebration ought to land will, if he can bring it about, be linked up with the Philadelphia celebration, proposed for the year 1926, in such a manner that the minds of the people of this nation will be focused for a considerable length of time on the issues and conditions of country and people during the times which gave freedom birth on this continent.

In fact the York executive in an interview puts forth the view that considering the present conditions and the situation which the peoples of the world are confronted with, as an aftermath of the great war, the time would be ripe for all communities in the thirteen original colonies prominently connected with the great events of the struggle, to arrange for celebrations. These, beginning with that in Philadelphia of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, would continue in sequence on down to the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown.

"We are on the eve of the occurrence of the sesqui-centennial of many events in American history which are rich in material for patriotic pageant and which should be observed appropriately," said Mayor Hugentugler. "In planning for the observance of the sessions of the Continental congress in the then borough of Yorktown, I was struck by the thought that if we properly link that event up with the Philadelphia observance, and if other communities do the same thing, a service would be performed for the country in calling nationwide attention to the celebration of the Declaration of Independence."

Aerial ladders were run up and fireman carried scantily clad women and children down to safety.

FIELD SECRETARY MAIN SPEAKER

"Christian Endeavor Four Square" Subject at Initial Convention Address.

"Christian Endeavor Four Square" was the topic chosen by Haines A. Reichal, field secretary of the Pennsylvania Christian Endeavor Union, for his address at the opening session of the Adams County Christian Endeavor convention in Wrenksville Thursday night.

In this address delivered to about two hundred persons in St. James Lutheran Church in the northern county town the field secretary spoke first of four classes of membership, namely Junior, Intermediate, Senior and Alumni. The four spheres of action he said are church, home, community and the world while the four fundamental principles to guide the members are confession of Christ, service to Christ, loyalty to the church and fellowship with Christ's people.

Toward the close of his address Mr. Reichal spoke of the "Four Ways of Putting Things Into Action" which he said were prayer, expression, testimony and personal stewardship, the four sub divisions being stewardship of time, money, strength and ability.

Dr. Clark, founder of Christian Endeavor, advanced this plan at the recent World Convention in New York City and it was adopted by practically every society.

The initial number on the program was singing led by I. H. Mack, Philadelphia, song leader of the convention. This was followed by devotional exercises led by Rev. M. E. Smith, formerly of Wrenksville. Between the first and second speeches of the evening the audience sang "Satisfied" written by Adam Geibel, the blind composer who gave a recital in Gettysburg last spring.

Paul Hoffman, of Wrenksville, welcomed the delegates to the convention while Mazie V. Krout, of Gettysburg, responded.

Rev. George E. Haaf, a missionary to India for eight years, made a plea for those who do not know Christ. By telling many stories of his experiences in India he was able to give his audience a vivid picture of conditions there. He spoke of the sincerity of the worshiper for Buddha who is ready nevertheless to receive Christ.

Cleveland, August 5.—Seven men alleged to have been members of the gang that rifled the mail car of the Manhattan Limited, Pennsylvania passenger train, at Cassandra, Pennsylvania, of several sacks of registered mail last Saturday, were arrested here today.

Officers say all seven will be booked on charges of highway robbery. The arrest came after postal inspectors at Calvert, of Altoona, learned that the men, all former residents of Cassandra and Gallitzin, Pennsylvania, had gathered here and had been seen in the vicinity of Cassandra shortly before the robbery.

STOCK REPORT

Stocks Weak; Selling Movement
General; Sterling Exchange Lower.

(By Associated Press)

New York, Aug. 5.—A selling movement which set in early in the stock market this morning was extended to embrace all classes of industrials. Oils, equipments, rubber, gas, copper and food issues weakened railroads fell away steadily with dividend and low priced shares showing about the same relative amount of weakness. Forced liquidation of certain industrials, the stiffening in time money rates and a desire by the bulls to await until some of the uncertainties of the outside situation had been removed gave the bears the upper hand. Sterling exchange lost a fractional part of yesterday's large gains.

Liquidation coupled with aggressive short selling caused a considerable extension of early losses in the final hour.

The closing was weak. Sales approximated 450,000 shares.

HOSPITAL VICE DEN SAYS FORBES

Conditions in Kentucky Institution for Soldiers Declared Deplorable.

A SECRET INVESTIGATION

Morphine, Moonshine, Loaded Dice And Immoral Women Said to Abound. Many Patients Carry Guns.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Conditions at the Johnson City (Tenn.) Soldiers' Home, where former service men are receiving hospital treatment, are so deplorable that unless Congress acts immediately the casualties there will be proportionately higher than occurred in the World War, Director Forbes of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance declared yesterday before a Senate committee.

Agents of the Bureau have just completed a secret investigation of the institution, in which are quartered nearly 850 former service men. Colonel Forbes declared these men are living under astounding conditions of vice, corruption and immorality.

The War Risk Bureau head brought as witness M. P. McInerney, the agent who made the investigation and who lived for a week as a "patient" at the home. The latter told the committee of having bought morphine, moonshine whiskey and extract of ginger containing 95 per cent alcohol on the home reservation. He declared that intoxication was common among the former service men and asserted that immoral women overrun the grounds on which the institution is located.

Patients Carried Guns
The witness said he had encountered many patients who carried guns and defied the guards to take the firearms away. There was absolutely no discipline, he added, and the patients "ran the place to the extent of forcing the executive officers to withdraw the guards from the dining-rooms." Loaded dice and marked cards, he declared, were supplied by "Parasites" from the outside and the patients were "drained" of the money given them by the Government.

As Mr. McInerney gave detail after detail of his experience which ended Monday last, Senator Walsh (Democrat of Massachusetts) demanded that the situation be laid before Attorney General Daugherty for action. The Senator declared that all those in authority at the home who, he said, appeared to have permitted the condition described to continue, should be indicted for malfeasance in office.

No action was taken by the committee, however, but Mr. Walsh declared that the sending of former service men to "such hellhouses has got to stop."

Has No Jurisdiction
Colonel Forbes again explained that his bureau was unable to correct the evils because of lack of jurisdiction over the Soldiers' Home, which is administered by the Federal board controlling all such institutions. He declared he felt it his duty to make public his findings, however, in order that public sentiment might wipe out the "curse" which his investigation had showed exists.

KIT CARSON MONUMENT

Carson City, Nev., Aug. 5.—Unveiling a monument near here, the Native Sons of California on Sunday will mark the site of the "Kit Carson Tree."

The California tree, a pine on which Kit Carson carved his name in 1844 when acting as a guide to Col. Fremont, has been given a place in the Hall of Fame for trees with a history by the American Forestry Association, following its nomination by F. N. Fletcher of Carson City, Nevada.

It was on this trip that Col. Fremont discovered Lake Tahoe. The pine was in a pass through the Sierra Nevada Mountains. The tree was cut down in 1888 by William Thornburg and J. F. O'Gorman, the Association's data shows, and the trunk with Carson's name cut in it was moved to Sutter's Fort, where it may now be seen. A full account of the tree's history has been sealed up in a container in the monument by Native Sons.

TROLLEY CARS DISTRACTING

Hanover Residents Declare Properties Are Damaged By Vibration.

So distracted have the residents of Baltimore and Pleasant streets, Hanover, become because of the noise from street cars at the intersection of the two streets that a petition signed by a number of residents praying for relief was handed to the Hanover Council at their meeting Thursday evening. The purport of the petition is that the jar of the cars of the Hanover and McSherrytown Railway Company is learning here properties by breaking pictures and mirrors on the walls of rooms and making breaks in foundations of the buildings.

IRISH CONSIDER BRITISH PEACE

Republican Parliament Called to Discuss Proposal. Some Mystery About Action.

London, Aug. 5.—The Irish situation took a sensational turn yesterday, when it was announced in Dublin that Eamonn de Valera and his associates had decided to summon a full meeting of the Irish Republican Parliament to consider the British Government's Irish peace proposals. It has been repeatedly stated in Dublin that the Dail Eireann would not be summoned until Ulster's attitude had been learned, but coincident with the calling of a meeting of this body come conflicting reports from Dublin and Belfast concerning Ulster's position.

In Dublin it is reported that Ulster has been sounded and has returned an answer unfavorable to the Sinn Fein overtures, while in Belfast, after an important meeting of the Cabinet, it was authoritatively stated that the Ulster Ministry had received no communication from de Valera.

Reports Not Irreconcilable
While these reports at first glance seem irreconcilable, it is pointed out that possibly both may be correct. The fact that the Ulster Cabinet itself has not received a communication would not, it is noted, preclude the possibility of an informal discussion between the northern and southern leaders.

A dispatch to the Evening News from Belfast yesterday asserts that the Ulster Cabinet at Thursday morning's meeting discussed an invitation from the Dail Eireann to Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, asking him to attend a conference in Dublin with a view to determining Ulster's attitude. It adds that there is no possibility, however, of another meeting between Sir James and Mr. de Valera in Dublin, although the Ulster Premier is willing to meet the Republican leader with Premier Lloyd George in London.

Out of these conflicting reports, however, arises the outstanding fact that the Republican Parliament is to meet, which is taken to mean undoubtedly that de Valera will give a reply to Lloyd George in the immediate future.

INDIANS BURY HATCHET

Friendliness Exist Between Hurons And Iroquois.

Penetang, Ont., Aug. 5.—Friendliness existed yesterday between the hereditary Indian foes, the Hurons and Iroquois, whose chieftains buried the hatchet Wednesday and smoked the pipe of peace in the presence of a great multitude gathered on the shores of Penetang Bay for the tercentenary celebration of the coming of the pioneer Champlain.

This ceremony ended a feud that began 271 years ago, when the fury of the Iroquois fighters vanquished the Huron from the land that is now Ontario. Warfare raged among them for more than two centuries, but in recent years they were but nominal foes. Returning to the domain where once his ancestors ruled, the big canoe of Chief Ovide Sioui, of the Hurons, slid upon the sands of Penetang Bay Wednesday, and a moment later Big Chief Andrew Staats, leader of the Mohawk tribe of the Six Nations stepped ashore. The chieftains, in full regalia, with great feathers in an arched above their straight black locks, met in the shadow of a birch bark tepee.

ACCEPT CUT VOLUNTARILY

New York Transit Lines Will Save $5,000,000.

(By Associated Press)
New York, Aug. 5.—Workers on virtually all New York transit systems today had voluntarily accepted 10 per cent wage reductions.

The last group to accept was 6,000 employees of the New York Railway Company, operating most of the surface lines in the city. The cut is effective August 7.

More than 20,000 men employed in the elevated and subway lines of the Interboro and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company several weeks ago accepted reductions that will save the two systems $5,000,000 in annual operating expenses.

All local traction men are members of company brotherhoods.

BANKER IS IN HIDING

(By Associated Press)
El Paso, Texas, Aug. 5.—From authentic sources it was learned here today that a man answering the description of Warren Spurgin, missing Chicago banker, is in hiding at Chihuahua City.

END OF PESSIMISM IS MOST NEEDED

Governor Harding On Stand in Federal Reserve Investigation.

SEES IMPROVED BUSINESS

Declares Prosperity Is Near. Exports Are Picking Up And Banks Are Justified in Making Large Loans.

Washington, Aug. 5.—Credit policies of the Federal Reserve System continued under examination of a Congressional committee yesterday in a continuously stormy atmosphere, with Governor Harding of the Reserve Board as the sole witness. "The Federal Reserve Board did not create this financial depression," Governor Harding exclaimed toward the end of the day. "It saw it coming and got ready to protect things, and people ought to be grateful it did so. Now, all we need is cessation of pessimism, which marks bad times as foolish optimism marks good times. We all know now everybody was going crazy in the boom during the fall of 1919."

Situation Will Work Out

"This situation is going to work out. There's no comparison between the condition of a year ago and conditions today. Take cotton with a low yield and exports picking up. Banks everywhere are fully justified now in carrying loans."

"All we've got to do is to get out of everlasting pessimism and quit saying everything is going to the dogs. Why, a man has to put up a good, cheerful face if he wants credit. You can't talk to the banker like you do to the tax assessor."

Previously a sharp passage had taken place in which Representative Funk, Republican, Illinois; Representative Mills, Republican, New York, and later Governor Harding participated.

Funk Starts Row

"I'm keenly disappointed," Representative Funk said, "because the reserve system has been challenged, complained of, criticised and charged on one ground that it has discriminated against agriculture. And we've not heard one word from this witness."

Representative Mills leaped to the fray, asserting that the Commission had "allowed John Skelton Williams, former Comptroller of the Currency, during two days to make charge after charge against the Reserve Board," and that Governor Harding was entitled to "common justice" in the privilege of a detailed response.

Mr. Funk told Mr. Mills to "handle your affairs and I'll handle mine," while Chairman Anderson ruled that the Governor was "within his rights."

"Has the Reserve Board called in farm credits?" Mr. Funk demanded later.

News To Him

"No, sir, it never has," Governor Harding retorted. "How about the circulars of the San Francisco Reserve Bank?" Mr. Funk continued, "concerning the price of wheat in 1920?"

"I never heard that before," Governor Harding said. "Did it cause a break in wheat prices?"

"It had some effect," Mr. Funk responded.

"The board has cautioned Reserve banks not to issue circulars," Governor Harding continued. "It's the job of a banker to look to the value of his collateral, but to do it in a quiet way. It is not the function of the Reserve system to regulate prices, up or down, but to maintain credits."

Marshall Kept Silver After Three Go to Pen.

Silver ware valued at $600 which was stolen from President of the Western Maryland Railroad M. C. Byers, who is well known here, last December, has been found in the possession of Police Marshall Stansbury, of Pikesville, Maryland. He has had it in his home ever since it was found on the Milford Mill Road not long after the robbery of the Railroad President's private car at Hillen Station in December.

Three negroes have been convicted and sentenced to terms in the penitentiary for the burglary but Marshall Stansbury claims he never knew that the silver was the property of Mr. Byers, nor that it has been listed on the "look-out" sheets of the Baltimore police for many months. He states he thought it probably had been stolen from one of the houses in Sudbrook Park and that he had made efforts to discover owner.

Tuesday the Baltimore authorities and the Western Maryland detective force heard that the silver was in the keeping of Marshall Stansbury and it was taken in charge by the police department to be delivered to its rightful owner.

NAB TWO MORE IN MAIL ROBBERIES

Defendants Admit Sending Large Sums to European Banks.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Surrender of two more of the men indicted in connection with the alleged financial machinations of John W. Worthington and announcement that Federal investigators had learned that the principal defendants had sent large deposits to banks in Berlin, Warsaw, Posen and several Italian cities marked yesterday's progress of the inquiry, which, the Federal men say, will clear up mail robberies totaling around $6,000,000.

The foreign bank deposits were revealed by credit slips found in Worthington's office, according to John V. Clinlin, assistant United States district attorney. How much they totaled or the names of the banks were not revealed. The men who gave themselves up were: Alva Harschman, of Milwaukee, and John J. Epps, a real estate man, who was a defendant in the recent Toledo mail robbery trial, but who was acquitted.

Harschman told Colonel Clinlin that his only relations with Worthington comprised the sale of $20,000 worth of commercial paper to the latter. He was arraigned before Judge Landis and pleaded not guilty. Epps is said to have revealed to Federal officials that Worthington financed the defense in the Toledo case.

Search Reveals Nothing

New York, Aug. 5.—Search made yesterday of the safe-deposit box of Arthur M. Goldsmith, charged with complicity in the Chicago mail robbery, revealed nothing, Chief Hugh McQuillan of the Internal Revenue Bureau said.

Correspondence between John W. Worthington and Goldsmith, carried on mostly in code, was found Wednesday when Goldsmith's home in East Sixty-ninth street was searched by Chief McQuillan and Special Agent Roche, of Chicago, McQuillan said. These letters, he said, will be used as evidence against Goldsmith and Worthington, who is under arrest in Chicago.

GREAT BARN BURNS

The large frame barn and contents on the farm of E. O. Schloesser, ex-director of the poor, West Manchester township, York county, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin at 5:15 o'clock Thursday evening, entailing a loss of from $8,000 to $10,000.

Farm implements, unthreshed wheat from 38 acres of land, oats from 12 acres, and about 30 tons of hay were stored in the barn. Twelve head of cattle were in the barnyard and two horses in the stable. These, with 16 head of hogs, were saved by neighbors, who rushed to the Schloesser farm from all directions, when the flames were seen.

The fire, which seemed to have started in the upper part of the building, was discovered by Anna Schloesser and her brother, James, who were in fields some distance from the barn. Nothing was saved but a few farm wagons, which were in the carriage shed. Miss Anna Schloesser had been in the barn a few minutes before the fire broke out, and had just finished the evening milking. Everything seemed to be in order then.

BABY DRINKS IODINE

Drinking a quantity of iodine while its mother was at work in another part of the house, Clarence, the 17-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Uffelman, York, became violently ill and was rushed to the York hospital for treatment. The child's condition was reported as favorable for recovery last night.

The little child went upstairs with his mother Thursday morning, and while Mrs. Uffelman was at work on the third floor, Clarence stole away and in some manner secured an ounce bottle of poison and swallowed a quantity of it. Mrs. Uffelman noticed the boy spit out the liquid and at once discovered what the child had done. She quickly administered an antidote and rushed the child to the hospital where a stomach pump was used to remove the poison.

NO JAPANESE BEETLES

Warnings against persons offering to spray trees against the Japanese beetle at $30 a tree has been issued by the State Department of Agriculture, which sets forth that reports have come of such offers being made in the vicinity of Philadelphia, especially Elkins Park: "No Japanese beetle has been found anywhere in Pennsylvania, save in the small restricted area along the Delaware River, which is under quarantine, and no spray has been found which will destroy the insect," says the department's warning. "There is only one insect, the tussock moth, prevalent at this time which yields to spraying," says the Bureau of Plant Industry.

Some things about Banking you should understand

IT IS SAID that a follower of Confucius once asked the great teacher if there were any single word which covered, in its significance, all of the obligations of social life, and that the reply was "Is not 'Reciprocity' such a word?"

It is such a word in economic relations. In our statement, published in these columns a few days ago, we sought to show that the relations between a bank and its regular patrons are in very high degree intimate and reciprocal. The deposits of a commercial bank are supplied mainly by its regular customers and in the aggregate form a fund of working capital, brought together with the understanding that each contributor may draw any part or all of his own deposit absolutely at will, and, that he may have the privilege of borrowing from the fund from time to time to meet his further needs. A consolidation of working funds is accomplished to the common advantage. Seasonal fluctuations in almost all lines are such that unless a business has more capital than it can use all of the time it will have surplus funds in some seasons and need to borrow in others.

Other things being equal, the governing principle in the distribution of loans is that the depositor can borrow in proportion to his contribution to loanable funds, but of course the certainty of prompt repayment is a primary consideration.

Management of the Mutual Fund

THE BANKER manages these common funds. He determines their distribution. There is no challenging his decisions, for he is the owner of the funds while they are in his possession. He receives the deposits in the form of a great variety of items of credit, payable in all parts of the world. He gathers these funds together and assumes the risks of keeping them and employing them, and undertakes to keep them so readily available that he can meet the shifting demands of the numerous contributors both for cash and loans.

There is talk of co-operative banking, in the sense of ownership of a bank by its patrons, and as the stock of commercial banks is widely distributed co-operation in this sense exists to a large extent, but regardless of this, banking is highly co-operative, with the utmost incentive for the Banker to satisfy his patrons, and perfect freedom of action for the latter.

While the banker has a free hand in the employment of the funds, he must handle them with such regard for the interests of his patrons as to satisfy them, or his business will not be successful. The patron is free to withdraw his funds and place them elsewhere at any time. Banks are numerous, and the organization of a new one is a simple process under state or national law. There is nothing of the nature of monopoly about the banking business. It controls no natural resource or opportunity; its earnings are from current business, its customers are alternately creditors and debtors, and must be satisfied in both relationships or they can easily form new connections.

A GOOD BANKER will study the interests of his patrons, for his business will grow with theirs. The profits of a bank are made upon its deposits, rather than upon its capital; for the latter is relatively small—its main purpose being to serve as a margin of protection to the depositors. The idea that bankers, as a class, have interests diverse from or in conflict with the wholly erroneous, and arises from a view of only one side of their relations with the public. It comes from thinking of them only as money-lenders, overlooking the fact that the funds they have to lend are placed in their hands by the public, and that the supply and demand for these funds are both increased by general prosperity.

When the relations of a Bank to its patrons as set forth herein are fully understood it will be seen that many of the criticisms directed at bankers are made without consideration for the facts. They assume a freedom in the use of the funds which the banker does not have, and usually they disregard the fundamental conditions under which the business must be conducted.

The Banker's Chief Obligation

THE BANKER'S first obligation is to safeguard the funds in his custody, and keep himself in position to meet all demands for their return. Every other claim upon him is subordinate to this. The banking business would disappear if this requirement were not strictly observed. It is enough that a loan shall be "good" in the sense that there is ample security to guarantee its payment sometime; it must be collectible when due, if the banker is to be secure in his own position. He must be able to arrange the maturities of his bills so that his outstanding funds will be always returning to him in a steady flow, and that he may continually re-dispose of them to meet the changing needs of his customers. The funds which one patron borrows in the spring may represent the surplus which another patron has at that time, and by fall the latter will not only want all of his own funds but claim the privilege of being a borrower in his turn.

As a bank derives its lending power from the community in which it is located, serving only as manager of the funds given into its custody, it is evident that any change in business conditions that affects the amount of liquid wealth in the community will quickly affect the lending power of the bank.

A bank of itself does not create wealth. It is not an industry; it does not carry on production, and it cannot of itself supply wealth to the community. It is a receptacle, a reservoir of the floating, liquid wealth of the community. Its function is to aid production and trade by making this floating wealth more available and more useful than it could be without being gathered together. It is an agency for the more efficient use and handling of the community's wealth, but not for making wealth by any magical method, such as the printing press affords, or by creating deposits through loans. It is important to keep this in mind, because when people begin to complain that the banks or the government should make it easy to obtain credit, it is time to utter a warning.

Sound banking requires that somebody shall put a dollar of wealth into a bank for every dollar that the bank loans out, and when we speak of wealth we include the paper representatives of the liquid wealth which is moving in trade.

The wheat, meats, cotton, lumber, coal, and merchandise of all kinds that are being transferred are creating and depleting bank deposits as they move. It is through them that pools of deposits, or lending power, are created. When prices rise the deposits are increased and as prices fall they are decreased. These funds are the basis of the banking business.

The Bank as a Stabilizer

FOLLOWING a period of high prices, accompanied by a great increase of indebtedness, such as the period from which we are now emerging, such a contraction of deposits and of loans inevitably causes hardship to many. It is part of the necessary task of getting back to a normal situation. Rapidly advancing prices are followed, as a rule, by rapidly falling prices; sudden and unusual profits by equally sudden and unusual losses. The first should be recognized as certain to bring the second, and the warning heeded. Every great economic disturbance like a war has an aftermath of price fluctuations and financial troubles from which no banking system can completely protect a people, although a well organized and well managed system can mitigate the ill effects. At the present time, the facilities of the Federal Reserve System are aiding the nation in overcoming difficulties which would have been much more serious if we did not have this improved banking system to depend upon.

Deposits which rise from the sale of products represent real values which may be loaned and shifted about with safety, but remember all the time that if you want the banking business to be kept on a safe basis it must confine itself to funds of this character, received from the public.

Whenever the banks begin to create deposits, or money, by manufacturing credit, they are dealing with something unsubstantial, fictitious, and charged with possibilities of great mischief.

While The First National Bank of Gettysburg is patronized by some of the largest interests in Gettysburg and Adams County, nevertheless the majority of its depositors are individuals. No account is too small to be appreciated and accommodated here. There are now over 5,000 deposit accounts on our books.

With the granting by the Federal Reserve Board at Washington and the State Banking Department of the right to exercise Trust Powers, there is added another good reason why you should open your account with this, the Oldest National Bank in Adams County.

young Americans. In the winter when the thermometer drops to 40 or 50 degrees below zero, life on the station is more monotonous and desolate than ever. As the bay freezes over and the walk to the mainland is too long, we are compelled to stay in our barracks and occupy our spare time the best way we can. Our chief diversion is letter writing and if you would be kind enough to bring our lonely plight to the attention of any girls who may be interested enough to write to us, you would gain our endless gratitude.

"We very seldom see a magazine and have not received a newspaper in three months. Consequently we were very glad to get the news from the U. S. A. when we obtained The Times."

"Thanking you in advance for your trouble, we are your friends, Sergeant Jack Walters, Private Barnett Millard, Private Hershel Hill, Private Emert Columbus, Private Charles Doll.

"Our address is U. S. Naval Radio Station, Russian Island, Vladivostok, Siberia, Asiatic Station via San Francisco, Care of American Consul."

The letter was postmarked July 13 on the U. S. S. New Orleans on board of which vessel Joseph Williams, formerly of York street, is serving, and it was probably from him that the lonely marines obtained the copy of The Times and learned of the kind-hearted girls in Adams county.

Another person who might have given the paper to the marines is John M. Small, brother of Walter Small, of Gettysburg, who is stationed at the same place as the five signers of the letter.

GREAT THROG AT CARUSO FUNERAL

Choir of 400 Sing at Services Over Body of Famous Tenor.

Naples, Aug. 5.—Patrician and plebian Naples gathered early yesterday at the Basilica of the Church of San Francisco Di Paola in anticipation of witnessing the funeral of Enrico Caruso, the noted tenor, who died here Tuesday. The edifice, situated in the southern part of the city, near the hotel where he breathed his last, was decided upon as the last scene in the drama of the tenor's life late Wednesday, after King Victor Emanuel had given permission that it might be used for this purpose.

As soon as word reached Naples that the Basilica had been set apart for the funeral, workmen were engaged to construct a great platform to accommodate the 400 singers selected to assist in the last requiem. In the center of the Basilica was erected a large catafalque on which the coffin would be laid.

Thousands View Body Representatives of the king and the royal family, the Italian government, the municipality and the prefecture were appointed to attend the services, and the United States, in which country Caruso rose to his greatest triumphs in the lyric art, had instructed officials to appear at the funeral.

The crowds which on Tuesday filed before the bier of the dead singer were eclipsed yesterday, when thousands gathered at the Hotel Vesuvius to pay their last respects to Caruso. So large was the throng that it was deemed advisable to remove the body from the death chamber to the hall of the hotel, which was changed for the occasion into a chapel.

Sequester Property Titta Ruffo, the Italian baritone, who has in recent years achieved fame in America, arrived during the day, and hastened to the hotel. He was an intimate friend of Caruso, and insisted upon helping to transfer the body to the temporary chapel.

Mrs. Caruso has made formal application to the foreign minister, asking that the Italian ambassador at Washington be instructed to seal the New York residence of the late singer, pending a decision regarding the disposition of his estate. It has been reported the court here has decided to sequester all of Caruso's property until Mrs. Caruso's claims in behalf of her daughter are adjudicated.

WIFE OF HATFIELD TELLS OF FIGHT

Baldwin-Felts Detective Blamed For Battle in Which Two Died.

Matewan, W. Va., Aug. 5.—Sid Hatfield and Ed Chambers, Mingo mountaineers who were killed on the steps of the courthouse at Welch, McDowell county, in a gun fight last Monday, were unarmed, their widows told newspaper men here yesterday. Both Mrs. Hatfield and Mrs. Chambers accompanied their husbands to the court last Monday, where Sid former chief of police at Matewan, was to have answered a charge of being the instigator of the "shooting up" of Mohawk, McDowell county, last year.

The widows said they or their husbands did not anticipate trouble in Welch and that Hatfield locked his pistols in a traveling bag and Chambers laid aside his arms before starting for the courthouse.

Lively Blamed

The women declared that C. E. Lively, Baldwin Felts detective, charged with being implicated in the killings, boarded the train on which they were going to Welch early in the morning and followed them about the town until it was almost time for them to appear at the court. Mrs. Chambers describing how she and her husband, and Sid and his wife went to the courthouse and started for the entrance said:

"I heard a shot fired. I turned and looked at Sid and he was falling. Then, I looked at my husband and he was falling loose from my arm. The shooting then became general. I saw only two men shooting and they were C. E. Lively and a short, heavy-set man, who wore glasses."

Charges Negligence

Mrs. Hatfield said that she lost consciousness while the shooting was going on. She charged the Sheriff with negligence in not protecting her husband.

Hatfield, a principal figure in the industrial controversy in Mingo, was buried Wednesday in Buskirk, Ky., on the same lot as that of Mayor C. C. Testeman, killed in the May battle the body of Chambers was buried close by.

WOMAN HELD FOR 3 DEATHS

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Mary Demmer was questioned yesterday by authorities attempting to clear up the mysterious deaths of her husband, John Demmer, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kolze.

The Demmers and the Kolzes lived in the same house. The three died under similar circumstances. Arsenic poisoning was found in the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Kolze. The body of Demmer, buried at Colby, Wis., was to be exhumed yesterday.

Mrs. Demmer told of becoming Kolze's housekeeper following the death of Mrs. Kolze. She admitted she had loved Kolze, and quarreled with him when he was attentive to another woman.

Information given police by Mrs. Elizabeth Marwood, mother of Kolze, was that the love affair between Mrs. Demmer and Kolze began before the death of his wife. Mrs. Demmer denied that was true.

"Mrs. Marwood wanted the life insurance left by Kolze," Mrs. Demmer declared, "and for that reason threw suspicion on me."

Mr. Edison's questionnaire reminds us of the story of the Irishman who, while undergoing the civil service examination for policemen, was asked if he knew the distance between Boston and San Francisco. "Well, no, I don't know the distance exactly," he replied, "but if that's goin' to be my beat I don't want the job."—Boston Transcript.

such during the active operation of the club and each had knowledge of the continued operation of the club." In reaching its decision the court took into consideration the amounts paid from time to time by the directors who responded to the effort to meet current debts. As the result of paying more than their share the following men, the court decreed, are entitled to a refund:

P. W. Stallsmith $1.41; R. C. Miller $6.75; D. J. Forney $3.42; H. M. Hartman $5.67; John W. Brehm $7.70. Because they paid no money previously the court opined that Messrs. Plank, H. J. Harman, Dougherty, Funkhouser and McDannell should pay the previously specified amounts.

In their objection to the decision of the court the counsel for the defense asserts that the Gettysburg Baseball Club was not a corporation and that the five men had no knowledge of the debts incurred. The objection states in part:

Objection Filed

The defendants object to the second finding of the court that they "Accepted the positions of Directors of the Gettysburg Baseball Club, attended the meetings thereof and retained their association, etc." during that season of the year.

"The defendants respectfully submit that under the evidence there is nothing to show that they had knowledge of the continued operation of the club; and that the debts were incurred without legal authority from the Association.

"The above named defendants object to the court's opinion that they are to be held individually liable."

One of the greatest objections of the five men forced to pay is, according to their claim, that Charles Kimple, one of the directors, signed a note for $500 without the consent of the majority. They claim that the majority of an organization should not be responsible for the actions of the minority.

WANTS TO BE SULTAN

Spanish Outlaw Will Be Good On That Condition.

Madrid, Aug. 5.—Raisuli, former outlaw leader and chieftain of rebellious tribesmen in Morocco, is reported to have made an offer to Spain to pacify the entire Spanish zone of Morocco on condition that he be appointed caliph and sultan of the territory in question.

There have been reports that the town of Nador, South of Melilla has been evacuated by the Spanish troops and occupied by Moroccan rebels, but it is declared in official circles that there is no confirmation of these rumors. An official statement issued Wednesday night declares fires continue at Nador. The Moors are again bombarding Mount Arruit, where General Navarro and a considerable body of Spanish troops have been surrounded by the tribesmen.

Miss Clarke is held without bail at Orlando in connection with the killing of F. A. Miltimore, Monday night in that city. Miltimore was formerly employed in the local post office.

YORK MAY STAGE HISTORIC EVENT

but also as well to the other important happenings of the Revolutionary period.

Particularly Valuable

"This renaissance would be particularly valuable at about this time, I believe, owing to the confusion which has filled the world for so many years, and to the uncertainty which prevails in our own country. It would be a happy time to look backward at the lives of men who unselfishly sacrificed much to advance the cause of their kind, and to have our attention riveted for a considerable length of time on the events and condition with which they had to contend with."

"At this day those times seem rich in material for pageant on a large scale, and if it should prove that congress cannot be brought here, by not adhering too close to historical detail, and yet close enough to point the historical lesson, a spectacle could be provided that would interest the nation."

CARUSO SPENT MUCH

New York, Aug. 5.—According to a will, which Constantino J. Sperco, a notary, said he drew up for Enrico Caruso two years ago, the bulk of the tenor's estate was to be divided equally upon his death among his six nearest relatives. They are the tenor's widow, who was Dorothy Park Benjamin; their daughter, Gloria; his two sons by a previous marriage, Rudolfo and Enrico; his brother, Giovanna, and his step-mother.

"Caruso spent his earnings like wildfire," Mr. Sperco said. "He never got more than $2,500 a performance for singing at the opera here. I know, because I always saw the checks. He never refused the appeal for aid from a fellow countryman. He had lots of appeals and always appeared them with $100 bills. His income tax in 1919 was $170,000. Last year it was $165,000."

ANALYZE STATE FEED SAMPLESSome Mixtures Not Up to Requirements And Prosecutions Are Common.

Father Penn's efforts to keep the feeding stuffs for his livestock up to the mark are described in a report just sent to Secretary of Agriculture Fred Rasmussen, by James W. Kellogg, chief chemist of the department. During the first six months of 1921, the Bureau of Chemistry collected and analyzed 2,322 samples, these including all kinds of fertilizers, feeding stuffs and lime products.

As a result of these analyses, 56 prosecutions were ordered for violation of the various State laws covering feeding stuffs and fertilizers. Of this number, 27 prosecutions were ordered against dealers selling fertilizers not registered while 29 were ordered against dealers selling feeding stuffs not in conformity with the law.

The bureau, during this period, also issued 376 licenses for the sale of fertilizers, feeding stuffs and lime products, registering 1,707 different brands, while the bureau collected $34,535, largely in fees for licenses.

In addition to analyzing the various feeding stuffs and fertilizers the bureau analyzed many specimens of farm animals, the death of which were attributed to various causes by the farmers and veterinarians.

As a result of the spring inspection of fertilizers, by the Bureau of Chemistry, 28 brands of fertilizers were found without proper registration for 1921, as required by the fertilizer law. In some of these cases the sacks or attached cards did not show the complete required information. Under the circumstances, therefore, the selling agents will be held responsible and prosecutions have been ordered in all cases.

MARL BEDS IN CUMBERLANDDeposits Are Source of Lime For Fertilizing.

Carlisle, Pa., Aug. 5—Of more than ordinary concern and value to farmers of Cumberland county is the announcement made at the Farm Bureau office, that a number of marl beds recently have been found in different sections of the county. The marl is of excellent quality for agricultural use.

Deposits varying in thickness from several inches to several feet have been discovered to exist on the farms of J. Harry Line, Carlisle, tenanted by George W. Rhoads, located near the head of the Letort Spring; on the farm of J. F. Sours adjoining the Line farm; on the farm of Warren S. McKeehan near Alterton and several adjoining farms; on the farms of Robert Brenneman, Robert Zearing and W. R. Simons at Middlesex; and also on the truck farm of Frank Bender, Carlisle.

The marl in question is apparently of shell origin and is of very fine texture. The value of recognizing these deposits lies in the fact that as a source of lime it is equivalent to pulverized limestone in so far as it will correct soil acidity.

HITS SUNDAY DINNER

Harrisburg, Aug. 5—The big Sunday dinner in Harrisburg may become a thing of the past if a movement started here with a petition to the Church Federation and Harrisburg Ministerial Association gains any headway.

Charles H. Spotts, heading a committee of well-known men, thinks housewives should confine their Sunday activities to 30 minutes' cooking and that the usual big Sunday feasts should give way to a simple fare that will be easy to digest. He says that the women are entitled to as much rest on Sundays as the men, but the present program keeps them busy during most of the day preparing the Sunday meal and disposing of the pots, pans and dishes.

NEW DANCE STEP NOT INDECENTInstructor Declares "Society Walk" is Free From Undesirable Movements.

New York, Aug. 5—To get away from the evil of indecent dancing the National Association of Dancing Teachers, assembled in convention here from every section of the United States, has decided to inaugurate a new reformation dance—"the society walk."

"We have found a dance that can't be done indecently," L. P. Christensen, Salt Lake City, said today. He is chairman of Normal School Committee of Dancing Masters.

"There is no such thing as an immoral dance," he said. "There are immoral people who dance immorally, but that doesn't make the dance."

"I am 50 years old and never was sick until 8 years ago when I got stomach trouble. I have spent a fortune for medicine which did not cure. I kept on suffering and getting worse. A fellow worker told me about Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. After taking three doses I felt like a different man; before taking it I could not lie on my back nor right side. Now I can sleep any old way." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Peoples Drug Store and druggists everywhere.

"If a girl chewed her chewing gum immorally—and she can—you wouldn't call it immoral chewing gum and yet some people use the expression 'an immoral dance.'"

Safe From Exuberance

"The society walk—the latest creation which will not be officially sanctioned until the end of our convention—embodies all the spirit of youthful exuberance and yet enforces the law of decency."

"The spirit of the dance is a spirit of paly and the urge of self expression, and therefore the law of health and happiness, made useful by control of rhythm and purpose. This new dance—the society walk—is simply that. Some people might call it putting on the dog. You merely step around with an agitated overjoyed happiness, using the old steps, but for a new expression. You smile and radiate happiness—you don't look mean and wiggle your hips."

"The shimmy and the Chicago and all those other body gesticulations were never dances. A ballroom floor is no wrestling mat and no place for lovers to spoon in arms."

BAD HABITS

"YOU would be a much more agreeable man," observed the professor, "if you would abandon the disgusting tobacco habit. Your aroma taints the breeze to such an extent that I know you are coming before I can see you."

"I'm glad to hear that," said
the low-browed
man. "Some people go to great expense engaging advance agents,
but I never believed in useless extravagance. If a ten cent package of tobacco
will do as good service as a high salaried advance
agent, I'd be foolish to keep the ten cents."

"People are always asking me why I don't quit tobacco, and I've always noticed that the people who regard my little innocent habit with disgust, have worse ones of their own. Why don't you quit wearing sidewhiskers, when you must know that they jar
the nerves of the fastidious, and make you look like something that should be in a museum? What sense is there in wearing sideboards? I'd be the last to speak slightly of an infirmity or deformity. If you had a game leg or wry neck, my heart would be full of sympathy for you. Such afflictions should not be mocked or held up to scorn by any man; but nobody needs to wear sidewhiskers. It's something that can easily be helped. You shouldn't make caustic remarks about the tobacco habit until you have had those fire escapes removed."

"Old Doolittle asks me about three times a week what pleasure I find in using tobacco. I have explained the matter to him repeatedly, but nothing
I say seems to make any impression on him. He clings to the belief that smoking is on a level with robbing a church or defrauding a widow."

"He doesn't use tobacco, but he has about every other bad habit you can think of. When it comes to spilling the truth he could give cards and spades to the whole Ananias family.
I try to be reasonably truthful. I never spring a fish story unless it will serve a good purpose. But Doolittle will go to all sorts of trouble to hand you a falsehood. If he says he has the toothache, you may rest assured it's a sprained ankle that's bothering him.
I contend that it's worse to sit on the truth and hold it down than it is to load a good old briar and blow out a few reams of smoke."

"Aunt Julia is always lecturing me about the tobacco habit. I have said it a hundred times, and I say it again, that my aunt is all wool and a yard wide, and you would travel far before finding a better female, but if you think she has no bad habits you have another guess coming. Two or three years ago she read some English society novels. Those stories are full of tea parties. A man reading them would think the Britishers spent all their time at tea fights."

"Aunt Julia thinks that anything British is entirely proper, and she got the idea that you can't be fashionable unless you consume a certain amount of tea. So she blew herself for the herb, and began drinking it. At first she said it tasted like colic medicine, but she persevered, and now she's the champion middle weight tea drinker of this burg. I won't say anything about the money it costs. She insists upon having imported tea, and won't be satisfied with any home grown substitutes, although sage tea is far better and costs next to nothing."

"She gets on a tea jag every time she has company, and then for two or three days she has a hangover, and her nerves are a sight to be seen, and I just wish you had to live in the same house with her at such times. Then you would be willing to admit that there are worse things than smoking."

"Talking, for instance," sighed the professor.

Virgin Islands Export Sugar.
The most important agriculture in the Virgin Islands is sugar, of which approximately ten thousand tons were exported in 1919. In 1919 the government succeeded in opening the Porto Rican market to cattle from the islands. About $30,000 worth of cattle were exported, and it is thought that the cattle-raising industry will eventually become an important one. Exportation of cattle to Porto Rico formerly was prohibited on the ground that the Virgin Islands were in the tick-infested area.

Many Times.
Young Col. Theodore Roosevelt was taken to task at a dinner in Albany,
by a young matron.
"I should have thought," she said,
reproachfully, "that you'd have stuck to the army, colonel."
"But politics is so much more exciting," the young legislator retorted.
"Politics more exciting than war?"
"Yes, indeed," said Colonel Roosevelt. "In war, you see, you can be killed only once, but think how many times you can be killed in politics!"

They've a knack for keeping fit those suits. They don't put on airs because they're freshly pressed. Every detail of their style was built in, and the longer you wear them the more you hate to part with them.

mauled the taxi-driver, jumped into the first car she saw and ran away!
